One of theater's strangest, funniest and most beloved musical comedies, Little Shop of Horrors, brings its sci-fi charm and blood-lusting plant from outer space to the Pentacle Theatre stage Nov. 9 – Dec. 1.

Mixing weird happenings and unrequited love set in a run-down florist shop, Howard Ashman and Alan Menken of Disney's The Little Mermaid, Beauty and The Beast and Aladdin are the creative geniuses behind Little Shop of Horrors. They based their endearing and enduring hit musical on Roger Corman's original 1960 cult comedy film.

Get your tickets to see Robin Goodrin Nordli

"Since Robin Goodrin Nordli arrived at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival 25 years ago, I have had the pleasure of enjoying so many wonderful performances by her. Robin is truly a thoughtful, intelligent and versatile actress. From Ibsen to Coward to Chekhov and, of course, Shakespeare, Robin has thrilled audiences with her fabulous comedic and dramatic performances.

Robin is also a gifted musical performer. Early on in Cabaret Verboten, a favorite of mine, to the recent productions of Into the Woods, Beauty and the Beast and her fabulous portrayal of Miss Adelaide in Guys and Dolls, you know that if Robin is in the show you are in for a treat. I am so happy that Robin is coming to Salem to share her immense talent with us at Pentacle Theatre. I had the privilege of seeing one of Robin's shows at Artists Repertory Theatre in Portland several years ago. She is so imaginative, charming, funny and wonderful; I guarantee you will be glad you came. I can't wait!"
